

You are invited to our Costume Workshop at AMT

Ever wanted to be a costume designer but don't know where to begin?

Want to fine tune your wardrobe skills?

AMT is holding a one-day costume workshop with Alf Weston.

Who is Alf Weston?

Alf Weston is no stranger to costume design. Alf has been costume supervisor and designer for Television New Zealand, Royal New Zealand Ballet as well as numerous productions both amateur and professional. He is now working as a freelancer in Paraparaumu and has taken on the role as costume manager for 42nd Street which will grace the CIVIC stage in October.

This full day workshop will be broken into two halves:

Morning

- Reviewing the role of costume design in theatre
- Discussing the importance of costume design functionality with regards to costume plot and characters, theme and production requirements
- And most importantly ensuring that 'Doris' does not wear the lemon satin...

Break for lunch at 12.30 – your meal is included in your registration price

Afternoon

- collating all the information learned this morning to make something out of nothing! (Please bring an old shirt/apron/smock to wear for this section)
